True to its mission and values, the 2023 edition of the Citadelles du Vin competition will be marked by excellence, demonstrated this year by honouring Argentina and its remarkably diverse terroirs. The event will be held in Bourg-sur-Gironde around the fine proposals and work of our producers for a competition rich in discovery, interaction and an impressive awards list.

We look forward to seeing you again, as dynamic as ever, to spend an enjoyable time together.

CONCOURS DES VINS

Since 1976, the CDV (Concours des Vins) has supported and promoted wine production through two fully independent international competitions for wines from around the world.

A bridge between winemakers and consumers for 46 years, the association has been organizing Challenge International du Vin since 1976 and Citadelles du Vin in different formats since 1981.

The CDV is committed to supporting and promoting the quality and the diversity of wines from around the world.

Thanks to a large majority of foreign wines competing in these two annual competitions as well the post promotion of the laureates, these medals benefit from an indisputable recognition both from French and foreign consumers.

Every year, up to 5,000 wines are delivered to CDV cellars in Bourg near Bordeaux (Gironde). They are then anonymized and prepared for the competitions thanks to the support and the involvement of a hundred members and 4 full-time employees who put their know-how and resources at the service of the producers of the wine-growing regions of the world.

By rallying energies and resources, the organisers make all the needed efforts to ensure the celebration of the wines from around the world in the best conditions, so that everyone could enjoy the event: wine growers, tasters, enthusiasts and other players in the sector.

CITADELLES DU VIN

RECOGNITION OF EXCELLENCE

CITADELLES DU VIN, the keyplayers in the competition

œnologists, sommeliers, buyers, professors, critics and wine journalists from around 20 nationalities meet every year in Bourg for three days, to taste around 1,000 samples.

Everything is done to enable the winemaker to measure his work with the tasters, but also to better understand the expectations of the consumer. In this competition, the wines and spirits in the running are blind tasted and independently by the best wine specialists in the world.

Only 30% of the wines and spirits presented leave with a Grand Gold, a Gold or a Silver Medal and even a Special Prize. An undeniable recognition and guarantee of quality for winegrowers but also a plus for consumers often lost confronted to the abundance of supply.

CITADELLES DU VIN, institutional recognition and international fame

First French international wine competition to have integrated VinoFed (World Federation of Great International Wine Competitions) and under the aegis of the OIV (International Organization of Vine and Wine), Citadelles du Vin complies with their very specific standards - from sample tracking to tasting conditions - making it one of the most qualitative competitions.

This is an undeniable asset that gives great credibility to the results of the wines and spirits that win the medals.

The diversity of the countries competing each year, as well as the nationalities represented by the jurors, is a guarantee of the outreach and recognition of the excellence of Citadelles du Vin competition.

CITADELLES DU VIN, key figures

Since its creation in 2000, Citadelles du Vin has gathered almost 50 countries for a total number of 21,824 wine and spirit samples. The jurors with members of 36 nationalities have awarded 6,061 medals.

CITADELLES DU VIN, bastions of excellence

Strikingly majestic, the citadels of Blaye and Bourg – to which the competition owes its name – watch over the waters of the Gironde Estuary and overlook the surrounding vineyards. Like these sentinel buildings, the Citadelles du Vin competition does everything in its power to fulfil its mission as a bastion of excellence every year.

2023 EDITION

The 2023 edition's guest country: ARGENTINA

The first vines arrived in Argentina in the mid-16th century, in the holds of the Spanish colonists' ships. Cultivated by monks, their grapes were used to make communion wine. This historic vineyard was modernised in the second half of the 19th century under the impetus of President Domingo Faustino Sarmiento. The statesman brought in Michel-Aimé Pouget from Bordeaux, who imported grape varieties and viticultural methods from the old continent to the Mendoza region. The waves of European immigration at the end of the 19th century amplified this movement, but it was not until the 1980s and 1990s that Argentinian winegrowing came to the fore internationally.

Argentina is the world's fifth largest winegrowing country with a surface area of 195,000 hectares, and is the fifth largest wine producer, home to 18% of global production. Mendoza now ranks among Bordeaux, Florence, Porto, Bilbao-Rioja, Melbourne, Cape Town and San Francisco as the eight wine capitals of the world.

A country of contrasts, Argentina offers an impressive diversity of terroirs. Planted between 0 and 3,000 metres above sea level, the country's vineyards stretch 2,000 km from north to south and can be found in four main regions. Their northernmost part extends around Salta, Tucumán and Jujuy. Most of the vineyards (95%) are located centrally in the region of Cuyo and the cities of Mendoza, San Juan and La Rioja. The rest of the winegrowing area is divided between Patagonia and Neuquén in the south and the oceanic region of Buenos Aires in the east.

Many international grape varieties are grown in Argentina, starting with Malbec. Emblematic of this terroir, it represents 23% of the nation's area under vine. Imported by European immigrants at the end of the 19th century, Bornada (9%) comes second and is particularly suited to the local vineyards due to its adaptability to hot climates. An indigenous variety, Torrontés (5%) is considered the signature grape variety of Argentinian white wines.
